City of Stars is a song by Ryan Gosling and Emma Stone in La La Land. This song won the Golden Globe Award for Best Original... In this post we are looking for La La Land Piano Sheet Music. The official title of the song: Mia & Sebastian's Theme. But I'll just call it La La Land. It's a lovely piece of music. Actually, my wife wanted me to learn from this play... He asked his sisters over for some wine and cheese. And he thought it would be nice if someone played the piano in the background. You didn't have to ask me twice. Because I love playing the piano. And my favorite place to play is in the background. So I did some searches online. And I found a lighter version. And a tougher version. So I thought, one look at each version, and we could see how they differ. (I also have links to both versions of the scores at the end) Now, let's go. Let's go. La La Land Piano Scores - Main Theme We begin with a look at the lighter scores. As you can see below. The right hand mostly plays quarter notes. While the left hand plays quarter, half and dotted party notes. La La Land Piano Sheet Music - Main theme - Easy Version Now let's see how the harder sheet music approaches the main theme ... See below. Rhythmically, it's a little more challenging. And the left hand has a little more movement. But nothing crazy. I mean, as far as the piano music is concerned, it's actually pretty easy. However, progress where things are a little more difficult ... La La Land Piano Sheet Music - Main Theme - Hard Version Now let's take a look at both versions of the sheet music approach to the ending: La La Land Piano Sheet Music - Ending When we look at the sheet music, I thought I'd mention that my wife and sisters really love the movie La La Land. And I can see why: Ryan Gosling. What more is to say? And he plays the piano... It's a big plus in my wife's book. I think so. Anyway, back to the scores: Both versions of the end don't run a little up on the piano keyboard, which sounds good. Let's start again with the easy version. It uses a repeated pattern Left hand - A, C #, G Right hand - A, C #, F, A Check it out: La La Land Piano Sheet Music - Ending - Easy Version Then looking at the hard version sheet music. It just repeats the notes - A, C #, E, G Ami is an A7 arpeggio: La La Land Piano Sheet Music - Ending - Hard Version Okay that's all in this post. I hope you enjoyed it. And if you're interested... The scores offered here are at the Engagement Party (aka It's Over?) for the film La La Land. The song is written by Justin Hurwitz. I set it up for a simple piano. This is not in the original key; I think it was originally in E major, and this version is in C major. It's as easy as I could make it while not changing the flow and direction of too much. We could simplify many of the left-hand measures further with only two comments (Quarter note and then dotted party note), which allows us to retain a bit of movement, or the whole note of the same note with a note (or even a single note!), which makes it much easier. However, because I also have a coded in this version, I decided to write the piece as you can see. You can use the basic notes of the coded if it is Simplify. It lives towards the piece of light piano music when one has taken the c-ced root notes on his left hand, but also all the current things are scattered throughout. This is another please simplify this piece. The original piece I tried to give was Ronald's Musescore... and this is obviously an amendment to rewrite the DJA28. The Musescore version apparently looks a little intimidating, so I rewrote a few things: lowered the score; has changed the key signature from 3 apartments to non-sharp or flat; added pedal so you don't have to hold down previous notes while playing new notes with the same hand. I listened to this Youtube video and then changed a little further. I haven't looked at La La Land, so I don't really know the story behind this piece. It seems to be comfortable, hopeful and resigned given the Youtube scene and the play's name. Also, I put this together while feeling bad enough that I don't teach. I think there should be at least one mistake somewhere. Where he is, I have no idea.
